Is anticipation of an excellent entertain Is anticipation of an excellent entertainment, a large audience gathered in Blanchard opera house last Thursday evening to listen to the concert given under the auspices of the King's Daughters. Although it was a home-talent affair, it was, all the same, a delightful entertainment. The quartette choir of Christ church, composed of Miss Agnes M. Dooley, soprano, Mrs. Laura Oviatt, contralto, Herbert Chapman, tenor, and Charles F. Lowe, bass, sang two selections. By their long association together this quartette has reached a man, tenor, and Charles F. Lowe, bass, sang two selections. By their iong association together this quartette has reached a degree of perfection seldom attained by even much more celebrated singers. The solo work of Mr. Chapman, Mr. Lowe and Miss Dooley was heartily encored. In the "Flower Girl," Miss Dooley's pure and flexible voice and well nigh perfect intonation was as sweet and clear as a chime of bells, and in "If the Sweetheart You Love is True," the fine qualities of Mr. Lowe's voice were fully brought out. The excellent voice, facial expression and dramatic action of Professor S. J. Bianpied make his appearance as a reader always enjoyed. Rev. A. N. Lewis also read three selections in an admirable manner, one, in the negro dialect, being especially good. The flute playing of Mr. George H. Wilder is remarkable for its brilliancy and refinement, and his numbers constituted a feature of exceptional charm to all lovers of melody. The soft and mellow tones that he evoked from his favorite instrument, as well as the finish and precision of his execution that his contemporaries cannot approach, threw a spell over the audience that was broken with loud applause as he retired from the stage.
